

HOW TO BUY Cheap Fertilizer

You Paid $30,000.00 For This Advice

WILL YOU TAKE IT?

READ BULLETIN NO. 177

Issued by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington, Kentucky.

Analyses of Commercial Fertilizers

"The matter of plant food is all important in purchasing Fertilizers. When a farmer buys a ton of average Commercial Fertilizer he buys in reality only 300 pounds of actual plant food. If he buys a cheap Fertilizer he gets less than this amount. If he buys a high grade Fertilizer he may receive as much as 600 Lbs. It costs as much to mix a ton of Fertilizer containing 300 pounds of plant food as it does one containing 600 pounds. The cost of sacking, hauling and freighting is the same. Therefore, it is evident that the manufacturer can sell the plant food in a high grade Fertilizer cheaper per pound than he can the plant food in a low-grade Fertilizer. In other words, the higher the grade the cheaper can the plant food be bought. Farmers are advised, therefore, to purchase only high grade Fertilizers."

This advice is not free. You paid for it in a 50c tax on every ton of Fertilizer you use.

We wanted to help you get your money back, so we studied the Bulletin and found that while 37 of the manufacturers selling Fertilizer in this state gave average excess values of $1.40 per ton above the guarantee, there was one that gave an average of nearly $4.00 above the guarantee. That's why we selected

GLOBE FERTILIZER

IF YOU WANT THE BEST, YOU WILL GIVE US YOUR ORDER FOR GLOBE

But you are paying others to advise you, and some of them say that all you need is "Cheap Acid Phosphate." If you think they are right, we are ready to supply your needs with

BATTLE-AXE

Guaranteed 16 per cent. Phosphoric Acid.
$12 50 per ton---One ton or a carload.

The same efficiency that made Globe "The World's Best Fertilizer" has made "Battle-Axe" "The World's Cheapest Fertilizer," and Battle-Axe is just as good as those other brands that have been offered you as "just as good as Globe." If you want to buy Fertilizer "cheap," get Globe. If you want to buy "cheap" Fertilizer—BATTLE-AXE.

DANCES OF FORTY YEARS AGO

William Allen White Recalls Memories of the Past That Is Not So Far Distant.

William Allen White writes: "In the 'Forty Years Ago' column in the Kansas City Times—which, if you are past forty-five, gradually becomes a column of absorbing interest—there is an item telling about a dancing school where they would dance the glide waltz and the lancers. The lancers! Which reminds us of a young woman long since gone to join the terpsichoreans 'Whose distant footsteps echo down the corridors of time,' namely your 'sister Fawnies who dawnced the lawncers and all the other fawnies dawnced!' She is a grandmother now—perhaps, if her daughters were enterprising, a great-grandmother. But she was a sweet and beautiful girl in her day and as a youth we were very much in love with her. Where are now the old familiar faces? Sister Fawnies, the girl with 'tassels on her boots,' 'Sweet Belle Mahone,' 'Molly Darling' and the Buffalo girls who always were 'coming out tonight.' 'You are old, Father William, the young man said.'—Kansas City Star.

FOUND MAN'S BONES IN SHARK

Fish Caught Off Florida Held Skull and Part of Skeleton of White Man.

A skull, a right shoulder blade, a left thigh bone, an upper arm bone and one finger bone were found in the stomach of a 12-foot shark captured by Henry Sanford of New York and Richard Conn near Soldier Key, twelve miles from Miami, Fla. Nine other sharks were caught by Sanford at the same time.

The shape of the skull and the size of the bones indicate that the shark's victim was a white man. From the condition of the bones it is believed they had been in the shark's stomach for months. The shark was cut open at the Royal Palm hotel. It was the first man-eating shark ever found on the south Florida coast. No buttons or pocket trinkets were found, and there was no possible means of identification. There has been no death by drowning in this vicinity this winter, so it is believed that the shark's victim fell from an ocean steamer.

FRENCH TEACHERS IN WAR.

Twenty thousand of the 50,000 school teachers of France are in the army, and the frequency with which they are cited in the orders of the day has been marked. Even those who remain with their classes are contributing in an original way to the support of the army. They require their pupils to bring to school at least once each week two potatoes, two carrots, two turnips or other vegetables to be devoted to provisioning the military hospitals. No child is allowed to bring more than two, in order that no jealousy may be created. The object is not so much to assure a supply of food as to teach the children generosity and let them feel that they are filling their role in the war. It has also had a leveling effect between the different classes. From the department of the Deux Sevres in one day more than sixty thousand vegetables were thus collected.

ODIOUS COMPARISONS.

"I'm making a fortune in my business. I tell you there's nothing like leather."
"There isn't? Come out to my house some night and try my wife's biscuits."

MORE THAN HER SHARE.

Patience—Nature has provided for her lavishly.
Patrice—How so?
"She has two chins."

CONSOLATION.

Bill—I see it is said that goats never have corns or warts.
Gill—There's some consolation in being the "goat," then.

RESULT OF DISOBEDIENCE.

"What's the matter, little boy? Are you lost?"
"No, but gran'ma is. I told her not to let go my hand."—Life.

COMMON TRAIT.

Marcella—Bessie Beanbrough's fads are golf and cooking.
Waverly—I suppose it is because both have their hands.

MADE TWO WATERWAYS ONE

Historians Unable to Give Credit to Some Far-Sighted Ruler of the Long Ago.

Arabistan lies at the head of the Persian gulf, its western boundary being the Shat-el-Arab, the great river formed by the combined waters of the Tigris and Euphrates, the right bank of which is in Persian territory, while the left is in Turkish Arabia. Forty miles above where it flows into the Persian gulf the Shat-el-Arab is joined by the Karun, and the town of Mohammerah stands at the junction of the two rivers, the former a clear, green stream, the latter thick and red.

In ancient times the Karun flowed into the gulf, and part of the river still runs along the old channel, but the main stream has been diverted, three miles above Mohammerah, into an artificial channel known geographically as the Haffar canal. It is impossible even to make a guess at the date of this wonderful work, not even a tradition remaining of the ruler whose farsightedness realized the enormous advantage of joining up the two waterways. Alexander the Great has been suggested, but apparently for no other reason than that he is a convenient and likely person to credit with any ambitious enterprise, and that one of his many Alexandrias was built on the site of the present Mohammerah.—Wide World Magazine.

TOO BAD

The congressman each election has
To try to prove anew
The bad things said of him are false,
While all the good are true.

WATCH WITH ONE HAND.

While watches without hands, or with but a single hand, are by no means new, an ingenious watch of the latter class, of French make, is interesting. On a semicircle at the top of the dial plate is a scale graduated to indicate minutes. The lower part of the watch face has a raised plate, and projecting from under it is a wide pointer which passes along the scale of minutes, so as to point to the minute figure. Near the end of the pointer is a large figure indicating the hour, 6 for instance. When the pointer reaches 60 on the minute scale it disappears under the plate and a new marker (7) appears at the zero side of the scale.—Scientific American.

AS HE UNDERSTANDS IT.

This "civilized warfare" philosophy is credited to Harve Parsons: "As we understand it, it is against the rules of 'civilized warfare' to shoot an enemy with a frazzled bullet, but quite the proper thing to pot him with a stick of dynamite, a kettle full of harness buckles and cracked glass, or chase him through a barbed wire fence. There are other things about 'civilized warfare' that are hard to understand."—Atlanta Constitution.

CERTAINLY NOT.

"She's a perfectly lovely girl."
"How's her disposition?"
"Ahem! Well, you can't expect a girl to have everything."

IN PROFESSIONAL STYLE.

"How did the prima donna read her paper at the club meeting?"
"Oh, in a sort of sing-song fashion."

PARADOXICAL.

"I heard a dark secret about Gladys."
"What is that?"
"She lights up well."

THE REASON.

"Matinee idols never miss a hit, do they?"
"That's because they always hit a mine."
